ASH F. WILLIAMS IS THE NEW REPUBLICAN COUNTY CHAIRMAN.

He Was Elected to That Position by the County Committee This Afternoon.

LONG AN ACTIVE PARTY MAN

The Committee Met This Afternoon, Endorsed the Party Candidates and Prepared for a Strenuous Fall Campaign to Sweep County.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, July 30.—Ashbel Fairchild Williams, deputy prothonotary and an able, energetic young Republican, was elected County Chairman by the Republican County Committee which met at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Williams was placed in nomination by T. B. Donnelly of Connellsville.

The committee was called to order promptly at 1 o'clock by County Chairman P. A. Johns. The roll call was dispensed with and the delegates got down to business right away. Between 175 and 200 delegates were in attendance.

T. B. Donnelly arose and nominated Williams. He was elected without opposition. He was also elected Treasurer of the party and directed to appoint the secretary and committees.

Williams made a neat speech of acceptance. He praised the various candidates and assured them of hearty support by the party organization. He predicted a sweeping victory for the party at the polls next November.

Col. Thomas S. Crago, the candidate for Congress, was in attendance at the meeting and delivered a short address.

Ashbel F. Williams, the new County Chairman, is 28 years old and since his majority has been an active Republican. He has held several offices with marked distinction for a man of his years. He has been chief clerk to the County Commissioners, was chief clerk to the Register and Recorder and is now serving his second term as Deputy Prothonotary. He is active, energetic, diplomatic and resourceful. His election as County Chairman is deemed a wise one and for the best interests of the party.

The meeting very clearly defined the control of the Republican organization in Fayette County. Over 150 of the committeemen present are friendly to State Senator W. E. Crow, who endorsed the selection of the new County Chairman.

The attendance at the meeting was the largest in years, considering the fact that there was no contest on for the election of a County Chairman. The large court room was packed with the committeemen and spectators. County Chairman Williams was greeted with loud and prolonged applause when he was unanimously elected and at the conclusion of his clever little speech.

There were also cries for Colonel Crago who was given a loyal send-off upon his appearance and at the conclusion of his speech.

May Not Take Franks Farm for Childrens' Home

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, July 30.—Because it was learned the vein of Freeport coal beneath the Charles B. Franks farm in Dunbar township has been mined out, it is possible the County Commissioners may not accept the place for a children's home. The matter was discussed at a meeting of the Poor House Directors with the Commissioners today.

Attorneys R. F. Hopwood and T. P. Jones of the two boards are to delve further into the matter. It was understood that the coal under the buildings remained but it was found that this has been taken out.

Civil War May Follow Spain's Cut of Vatician

United Press Telegram.

MADRID, July 30.—A civil war in Spain is believed to be inevitable as the result of the recall of the Spanish ambassador to the Vatican and the threatened return to Rome of Monsignor Vico, Papal nicio to Madrid. A dispatch says the Vatican has warned Spain against becoming involved in a civil war and declared that the Pope can count on a vast majority of Spaniards remaining true to the church.

Spain was further warned that the war can only result in the overthrow of Alfonso and elevation of Don Jaime, the pretender, to the throne, or the establishment of a republic.

A complete severance of diplomatic relations between the government and the Vatican is expected the moment the latter receives the ministerial note being prepared supporting the King and cabinet in its stand against Papal authority.

Wants Damages From Coal Firm at Jacobs Creek

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, July 30.—Attorney Thomas H. Hudson today filed the plaintiff's statement in the case of Imrick Brohacki against the Jacobs Creek Coal Company, in which he claims the sum of $1,100 for damages.

The plaintiff is the owner of a house and lot in the town of Gallatin, Nicholson township. Since July, 1906, the defendant company has constructed a railroad siding along Provance street, in front of his home, occupying the entire street, as an embankment of 20 feet was built on which to lay the tracks. Brohacki alleges that after a rain, water to the depth of several feet lies around his house for a week or more, and that his shrubbery has been ruined. For this he asks $1,000 and an additional hundred for the ruin of his garden in the rear of the house, by the water.

Berry Ticket Can't Use Name Keystone Party

United Press Telegram.

HARRISBURG, July 30.—An inspection of the records of the court house today showed that the name "Keystone Party" was preempted July 11 by Harry F. Miller, J. B. Green, Daniel W. Seltzer, Harry K. Wittaker and W. Harvey Johnson, all of Philadelphia.

As 30 days are allowed for transmitting papers to the State Department they were not received at the State house prior to the convention of the new party in Philadelphia.

It is said that the men who prompted the name of the new party are not members of the disgruntled office seekers who held their convention in Philadelphia this week. The third party may have to recall the convention and select a new name.

NEW LEMON RATE.

Has Been Postponed From September 1st to November 1st.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(Special.) The Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered a postponement from September 1 to November 1 when the reduced rates on California lemons becomes effective.

The cut from $1.15 to $1 per hundred pounds will apply to all eastern points.

KENDALL TELLS OF CRIPPEN CLUE.

Described How He Came to Suspect the Pair on Board the Montrose.

SAFETY PIN FOR SUSPENDERS

That Is What Miss Leneve Used in Her Disguise as Son of Bogus Merchant—Dew Fears Reporters May Read His Thoughts.

United Press Telegram.

FATHER POINT, Que., July 30.—"The suspects did not sleep well last night. Both seemed haggard and worried today. The woman is not as nervous as the man and apparently doesn't experience the same degree of terror," was the wireless received from Captain Kendall of the Montrose, which was picked up today. Government officials received a wireless from the Montrose yesterday which said: "We just passed Belle Isle (10 A. M. Friday.) Crippen is on deck gazing landward. He is extremely nervous and visibly anxious. Worry seems to grow in intensity as he nears port. Miss Leneve is in her room and remained there all day."

The Montrose is due off Father Point Sunday afternoon.

Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard has secreted himself in Madame Levoe's boarding house. He has rented all the rooms to prevent reporters from boring holes in the walls and reading his thoughts.

Despite the government's embargo a private press wireless from the Montrose reveals the details of Captain Kendall's sleuthing. Kendall suspected the couple when it boarded and noticed the "son" pressing his "father's" hand tenderly. During lunch Kendall examined their hats and found the name "Jackson" on the "father's" hat band. The "son's" hat band was stuffed with paper.

His clothing was ill fitting and the trousers were fastened with a safety pin. He noted that "father" carried a big revolver.

According to Kendall only himself, the wireless operator and two deck stewarts, who are constantly watching the couple, knew the suspicions. Kendall declares he and the operator discussed the affair a long time and decided not to arrest the pair. Under the law of nations the captain is supreme at sea. Kendall declares he won the pair's friendship and secured valuable information which will be submitted to Inspector Dew.

Proudfit Baby Dead.

John Proudfit, the two and a half year old son of Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Proudfit of Peach street, died this morning following an attack of dysentery. The body will be taken to Barnesstown, Washington county, Monday for interment.

Settles Surety Case.

The surety of the peace case brought against Mike Krinock by Joseph J. Hrojny was settled amicably before Squire W. P. Clark yesterday afternoon.

A Small Boy Rifles Cash Drawer at Mt. Pleasant

Special to The Courier.

MT. PLEASANT, July 30.—While W. U. Stark, the East End baker, was at dinner yesterday and the clerk, who was supposed to be watching the store had just stepped out the back door, Charles Freeman, aged 14, of this place, entered the store and rifled the cash drawer, securing a wallet containing $5.35. While young Freeman committed the robbery, Thomas Carleton, commonly known as "Tats," stood on the street ready to give the alarm instantly if the clerk should appear. W. U. Stark did not notice his loss for a while, but upon the discovery quietly called up Chief of Police Edward Stevens.

Stevens was on the lookout and late yesterday evening happened to see Carleton and Freeman spending money with a free hand. His suspicions were aroused and he placed both lads under arrest. When confronted by Stark the lads confessed. All the money was refunded by the parents of the boys and the case was dismissed.

Trial Trip Proves Fatal to Henderson

Frank Henderson, a young man who lives about a mile from Dawson, son of William Henderson, was killed early this morning at Dawson on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. Henderson a few days ago came to Connellsville and secured work as a brakeman. He was making his second trial trip this morning, coming east on a freight. It is supposed he attempted to get off at Dawson and go home, preparatory to starting to work regularly.

Henderson alighted between the tracks from a moving freight. He stumbled over some rails and fell beneath the train. Henderson died soon after he reached the Cottage State Hospital. He was about 21 years old.

Ptomaine Poison Causes Death of Mrs. F. O'Toole

Mrs. Frank O'Toole, formerly Miss Nellie Reynolds, well known in Connellsville, was buried yesterday in the Glenwood cemetery, having died Wednesday at the O'Toole home in Homestead from ptomaine poisoning. Mrs. O'Toole was taken ill some days ago at her country home near Elizabeth. She was removed to Homestead, where she died Wednesday.

Mrs. O'Toole was well known in Connellsville. She was 31 years of age and the daughter of C. J. Reynolds. She was the niece of Councilman John F. Reynolds of the South Side.

Insurance Loss Only $101.19 in Last Five Months

In connection with the report of Fire Chief J. W. Mitchell, Clerk A. O. Bixler of Town Council has compiled some figures which will prove of interest.

During the five months covered by the report the loss from fires was $586.19. Of this amount property owners sustained $485 and the insurance companies $101.19. One hundred dollars in five months is a very small loss for the insurance companies.

The approximate cost of maintaining the fire department during this period was $2,250.

ARCHITECT'S PLANS

For the New Maccaroni Factory in Shape For Contractors.

The plans and specifications for the plant of the Connellsville Macaroni & Merchandising Company have been revised by the architect for the building owing to changes that had to be made to conform with the site donated by the Chamber of Commerce on the West Side.

The first of next week or the week following the company will be in shape to invite bids on the erection of the building. The contract will be awarded shortly. It is the intention to have the factory in business by the middle of November or the first of December.

O'Connor Starts Work.

Contractor Bernard O'Connor started work on the Leisenring-Uniontown extension of the West Penn company's lines. He has been assembling his equipment for some days past and the dirt began to fly this morning.

CHINESE INVASION

Of Indo-Tibetan Will Be Vigorously Resisted.

LONDON, July 30.—(Special.)—Dispatches from Simla, India, say two battalions of infantry and a mountain battery are ready to defend the Indo-Thibetan frontier from a threatened Chinese invasion.

There is no doubt in army circles but that China is planning a serious aggressive movement in Thibet and the situation is viewed with alarm.

PHYSICIAN BALKS AT FREE DUCKING.

Stands for It Twice but Then Goes After Henry Weihe Roughshod.

WEIHE USES A CANE TODAY

He Was Also Headed for Uniontown and May Be Looking for Law—Dr. Hoffman Keeps Temper for Time But Finally Loses It.

All the town is talking about the manhandling Henry Weihe of South Pittsburg street received at the hands of Dr. H. C. Hoffman yesterday afternoon. Weihe, who has an antipathy for benzine buggies, took exceptions to Dr. Hoffman stopping in front of his home yesterday. He got a pail of water and dashed it at the machine, it is alleged. Some of the water splashed on the dispenser of medicine.

Not satisfied with this, when the physician refused to take the hint to move, Weihe went for another pail and poured it at the machine, it is said. More water went on the driver, who sat motionless under fire—or rather, under water.

But when Weihe started after the third pail the physician's temper gave way. He leaped from the machine and ran into the hallway of Weihe home, taking the obstreperous resident in no gentle grasp. Before letting go Dr. Hoffman is said to have given Weihe a good shaking. This morning Weihe was using a cane. He also went to Uniontown, it is said, with the intention of looking for some law.

Weihe is fighting the automobile business. This morning it is said he took steps to have the windows of the Connellsville garage boarded up, claiming the wall of that building overreaches upon his property. Last week he tried the bucket of water scheme on another autoist and got away with it. Yesterday the pitcher, no, the bucket, went to the hydrant just once too often.

Hit by Express Flagman Dies as Result of Hurts

Clarence I. Cole, the Baltimore & Ohio flagman injured between Pittsburg and New Castle by being struck by No. 46 as he alighted from his train to flag the crew, died yesterday in a Pittsburg hospital. His body will be brought to the undertaking establishment of J. E. Sims this afternoon.

Cole was 21 years old and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cole. He had been flagging for nearly two years.

Born, a Baby Boy.

Officer Joseph O'Bryon of the local police force is the proud father of a bouncing baby boy which arrived at his home yesterday.

STRIKER IS KILLED IN CLASH WITH STATE POLICE AT EXPORT.

Trooper Davis Was Seriously Wounded in Early Morning Affray in Westmoreland County.

Slander Suit Echo of Another Legal Dispute

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, July 30.—An echo of the assault and battery case held yesterday morning in Squire John Boyle's office was the filing of a suit in slander, this morning, by Katherina Kermes against Lizzie Benedict, asking the sum of $2,000 for damage incurred to her reputation when she was accused of chicken stealing at the hearing. Bail in the sum of $300 is asked. Attorney Lee Brownfield represents the plaintiff.

The hearing yesterday was the result of quarreling among the children at Shamrock, a week ago today. After much wrangling, Squire Boyle decided that both sides were to blame, and made out an article of peace, which both sides signed. Then it was that Lizzie exclaimed, "You stole three tied up chickens from Millie." Kathrina denied the accusations. At the time, and it appeared that the trouble was at an end.

Men Wanted for a Shooting at Tower Hill

Constable Hugh McCann came to Connellsville this morning and located Anice and Louis Accica, wanted for shooting Tony Durinzi at Tower Hill No. 2 yesterday. The men are charged with assault and battery with intent to kill.

The officers in the south end of the county have been looking for the two since the shooting took place during a brawl yesterday. McCann came to Connellsville and succeeded in locating the men. They were lodged in the lockup here.

Durinzi was shot through the neck by a bullet fired by one of the two under arrest, so the officers claim. Four shots were directed towards the Italian but only one took effect.

Troops Ordered Out at Columbus; Expect Martial Law

United Press Telegram.

COLUMBUS, O., July 30.—Adjutant General Weybrecht today ordered the Fourth and Eighth regiments, General Sparks commanding, to go to Columbus from Marietta. It is believed he will declare martial law. The regi-

Papal nuncio to Madrid, was recalled

The colonels commanding the First in Cincinnati and the Fifth in Cleveland have been ordered to be on the alert.

This is pay day at the Humbert tin plate mill. The men are drawing good sized checks.

OTHERS MAY HAVE BEEN HURT

Believes Strikers Carried Away Several of Their Number Who Were Injured—Surprised While Trying to Shoot Out Searchlight.

United Press Telegram.

GREENSBURG, July 30.—One striker was killed, several seriously hurt and Trooper Davis of the State Constabulary was probably fatally wounded in a pitched battle near Export early this morning. The dead was not identified and the wounded strikers were carried off the field by their companions.

The strikers were attempting to shoot out a massive searchlight on the top of the tipple at the plant of the Westmoreland Coal Company. They had fired several shots at the light, which was placed on the tipple to protect the property of the company.

The State Constables surprised them and a pitched battle ensued. Shots were freely exchanged but the strikers made good their escape. One of their number was found dead on the field of battle after hostilities had ended. Trooper Davis was foremost in the fight. He received a bullet in the body and his condition is regarded as serious.

At Hofftown 34 strikers were arrested last night for rioting. Twenty citizens were deputized for strike duty. At Irwin many members of the University of Pittsburg football team were being deputized, that being the home of Halfback Ross Fichtner.

Two Boys Have Mishaps With Dog and Auto

Two small boys had mishaps on Cottage avenue last evening. One was bitten by a dog and the other collided with an automobile. The dog owned by C. J. Cottom is said to have snapped at a lad in the neighborhood, inflicting a deep gash in his arm. The dog has been tied up for 10 days pending developments.

A few minutes later, before the crowd had dispersed, a lad named Ellis, while coasting along in his wagon, turned suddenly and ran into the automobile driven by D. B. Evans. Mr. Evans was running slowly and came to a dead stop. The wagon ran into the automobile. The lad was badly scared and slightly scratched.

Double House at Wheeler Burns; Just Building

A new double house in course of erection at Wheeler was burned to the ground last night together with the tools of the carpenters and plasterers who were working on it. The fire started about 2.30.

A telephone call was sent to the fire department but the firemen did not respond because it would have been practically impossible to have reached the fire with the wagon in time to do any good; further, there are no fire plugs at Wheeler.

The house was being built by the Wheeler Improvement Company. The loss was about $1,000.

Business Still Booming at the Safe Works Here

The fall orders continue to be filed with the Pittsburg Safe Company and business there is better than for some time past. The orders being received now are greatly in excess of those filed at a similar time last year.

The company is looking forward to a busy fall and winter trade and preparations are being made to that end. At the plant now 35 men are being given steady employment.

Peddler Released From Jail.

UNIONTOWN, July 30.—(Special.) Thomas Merus, a peddler, was released from jail this morning on bail. He was committed there last evening by Constable William Cooley, on an information sworn to before Squire James Farrel, of Fairchance, charging him with selling without a license and refusing to show his license.

NEAR MURDER AT REVERE.

Infuriated Foreigner Shoots at Wife and Then Tries to Cut Her Head Off With a Bread Knife.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, July 30.—On receiving information that his wife was living with another man at Revere, John Ballata yesterday afternoon paid a visit to her home and another murder would have been added to the criminal records of Fayette county had it not been for the arrival of one of her boarders.

Without waiting to question her, Ballata is alleged to have fired two shots at the woman, both missing their mark. Failing in this attempt, he threw her onto a bed and after choking her until she was almost unconscious, grabbed up a bread knife, twenty inches in length, and was about to saw off his wife's head when assistance arrived. The knife had one razor-like edge while the other edge was toothed like a saw.

Ballata was arrested on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill, sworn to by his wife before Squire Daniel M. Bierer, and released on bail furnished by H. Fuserino.

This morning he made information before Squire John Boyle, charging Mrs. Ballata with adultery; also against one of her boarders for being intimate with her. The boarder who is said to have left for Connellsville, has been the cause of the troubles in the Ballata household, from the beginning. The family includes six children, and all were living happily at their home in Scarights, when the other man made his first appearance. In a short time, Mrs. Ballato deserted her husband, leaving all of the children in his care. He appealed to the county authorities for a home in which to place his youngest, but they were unable to aid him, for the reason that he was able and wanted to pay for its rearing.

He denies the charges brought by his wife, claiming that he went to her yesterday in an effort to have her aid in raising the children.

CHAMPION CHICKEN THIEF.

Judy Kuhn of Mt. Pleasant, Man With Unique Record of Which He is Proud, Back in Jail at Greensburg.

Special to The Courier.

MT. PLEASANT, July 30.—"Judy" Kuhn, champion chicken thief of Westmoreland county, has returned to his "home" at the county jail in Greensburg following a month's visit in Mt. Pleasant. It is not customary for "Judy" to pay such a long visit here but chickens were very scarce in town, and it took quite a while for him to gather together a nice bunch. He succeeded, however, this week in getting 25 nice plump fowls. The donors were H. C. Morrison, 13; W. A. Kulp, five; Simon Affholder, five; James Kuhn, his father, two. He also took two rabbits from a Slavish family on Vine street. The police got next to his little game and interrupted his visit here.

Prospects are that Mt. Pleasant will not see Kuhn no more until next year. "Judy" has very taking ways, that is he takes most anything that he can get his hands on, but he makes a specialty of chickens. To this trait he attributes his many trips to jail. Born and raised in Mt. Pleasant, a son of excellent parents and surrounded by prosperous brothers and sisters "Judy" still persists in stealing chickens. For the past 20 years Kuhn has spent practically all of his time in the penitentiary and in jail. Officers say that he has stolen more chickens in his life time than any other man in the world.

Agreement Filed.

UNIONTOWN, July 30.—(Special.)—By an agreement made June 29th, and filed today in the recorder's office, between David L. and Sarah M. Coffman to the Fayette County Gas Co., the former agree to change and notify the terms of a lease for oil and gas purposes, made April 11, 1910. About 117 acres of land in German township are involved. By the agreement, the rental for gas shall be only $100 a year, payable in advance.

Injunction is Asked Against Water Company

Special to The Courier.

SOMERSET., July 30.—Emanuel Kauffman of Conemaugh township has brought suit in equity for an injunction restraining the Manufacturers' Water Company from taking water for its systems of mains from the Stonycreek river or Quemahoning creek. Mr. Kauffman avers that his farm of 150 acres in Conemaugh township will be greatly reduced in value if the defendant corporation is permitted to drain the streams mentioned, which furnish a large percentage of the water used for agricultural and domestic purposes by the plaintiff, and that the productiveness of the farm will be greatly decreased. This is one of a number of similar suits against the Manufacturers' Water Company recently instituted. The litigation grew out of extensions of pipe lines through Conemaugh township and the construction of a large reservoir for the storage of water.

Christ E. Blough of Conemaugh township has brought suit to recover damages from the Johnstown Water Company and the Manufacturers' Water Company alleging that by reason of these corporations constructing pipe lines over his farm and taking the water from streams, turning the same into their mains, he has sustained damages

Josiah L. Baumgardner, administrator of the estate of John B. Horner, late of Oale township, has brought a bit to recover from Sadie Ripple $191 alleged to have been advanced to the defendant by the deceased during his life time

The Wilmore Coal Company, the real estate owning corporation of the Berwind-White Coal Mining Company, has filed a formal appeal from the assessment of their property in Paint and other townships, alleging that the assessments are much larger than those of other property owners. The Wilmore Coal Company owns several thousand acres of valuable coal property in Paint, Lincoln, Quemahoning, Brothersvalley and other townships, aggregating in value nearly a million dollars.

TWO INJURED IN WRECK.

P. & L. E. Railroad Tied Up Five Hours at Fayette City.

FAYETTE CITY, Pa., July 30.—(Special.)—Two engines and many cars were damaged and traffic tied up for five hours on the Arnold City branch of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroad here yesterday when a coal train collided head-on with a train of empties. Crews of both locomotives jumped and received slight cuts and bruises, but were able to assist in clearing away the wreck.

The injured are Engineers Jesse Wadsworth and C. C. Sprague; Firemen W. H. Douglass and Harry Johnson.

The trains met on a culvert above the West Newton pike and although the rolling stock did not leave the roadbed, coal and debris falling on the pike blockaded vehicle traffic. The cause of the accident is not known.

BELL-CHRISTIE

Wedding at Uniontown on Last Wednesday Evening.

What will come as a pleasant surprise to the many friends of Miss Mary Bell of Brownfield and Matthew Christie of Uniontown will be the news of their marriage which was solemnized Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock at St. John's Roman Catholic Church, Uniontown, by Rev. Father P. B. Kenna. The groom was attended by Henry McWilliams as best man while the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Beatrice Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. Christie left on the 5 o'clock train in the evening for the east and will visit Atlantic City before returning to Palmer where they will make their future home and where Mr. Christie is employed as store manager by the Union Supply Company.

A number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony. They were: Mr. and Mrs Joseph Bell, John Bell, Mrs Edward Bell, John Sheridan, John Collins, of Pittsburg; Mr. and Mrs. John Christie, Mr. and Mrs James Christie and family, James Christie, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers and family, Mrs. George Morris, Misses Mary and Ethel McMullin, Mrs. Mary McGibegan, of Uniontown; Mr. and Mrs. M J. McCoy and family, Terrance Donnelly, Jr., Michael Donnelly, Mrs. Michael Clark, Mrs Peter Mullen, Miss Julia Harty, Mrs. Jackson, Marie Jackson, Miss Lucy Shaffer, Sadie Patterson, Minnie and Bessie Martin, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Patterson and Mr. and Mrs J. W. Hansel.

SPUDS ON TREES.

Potatoes Thrive Well on Apple Limbs in Somerset County.

SOMERSET, July 30.—Henry Tidenberg of Northampton township has the greatest curiosity of the summer in Somerset county. During the high water period several weeks ago, Tidenberg's potato patch was inundated. Not a tuber was left of the erstwhile promising crop, while potato vines were found over a mile away.

In the fork formed by two limbs of an apple tree a number of potato vines clinging to small tubers were discovered after the water had subsided. Nourished the growth of the vines, supplying a little fertilizer, with the result that potatoes are thriving on apple trees.

HARRY H. THOMPSON TO START POSTAL BANKS.

Harry H. Thompson is chairman of the special committee, composed of officials of the postoffice department, selected by Postmaster General Hitchcock to work out the details for the establishment of the postal savings depositories. Mr. Thompson was born in Washington on May 28, 1868, and educated in the public schools and Columbia college. In 1891 he entered the government service as chief clerk in the paymaster's office of the United States marine corps, serving there until 1903, when he was transferred to the department of commerce and labor as cashier to the disbursing clerk. He entered the postoffice department in October 1905, as disbursing clerk, serving in that capacity one year, when he was made superintendent of the division of finance in the same department, which position he holds at the present time. Mr. Thompson is a companion of the military order of the Loyal Legion.

Spikes Removed From Rails, Fast Train Wrecked

United Press Telegram.

WILKES-BARRE, July 30.—Wreckers removed spikes and derailed the Quaker City express of the Central Railroad of New Jersey near Pittston today. The train was running over the Delaware & Hudson tracks.

The engine was overturned and three of four coaches overturned. Twenty-five passengers were badly shaken up but not seriously hurt. Engineer Casey and Fireman Pearson, both of Scranton, narrowly escaped death.

Casey saw the misplaced rail and applied the emergency brakes.

KEYSTONE COMPANY.

Sketch of Big Coal Company in Westmoreland County.

The history and operations of the Keystone Coal & Coke Company formed the subject of a recent article in the Pittsburg Dispatch, and from the data contained therein the following facts are gleaned:

The company is an outgrowth of the firm of Coulter & Huff, which began operations in Westmoreland county about 32 years ago. The senior member of the firm was General Richard Coulter, and his partner was Col. George P. Huff, who is now President of the Keystone company and a Congressman from Pennsylvania. From a modest beginning the business of the firm grew steadily and in due course a corporation was formed to carry it on. Under the corporate form the expansion was even more notable, and the company now ranks as one of the largest producers in Pennsylvania, and, consequently, in the country.

The location of the mines permits of tonnage being placed in the lake markets as well as at the seaboard and elsewhere in the east. During the past few years shipments to the Northwest have grown in importance and are now of large proportions. A substantial export business has also been built up in recent years, and shipments are made regularly to Europe, South America and the West Indies.

A feature of the export trade which promises considerable future development in the business that is being done with the Italian government. A year or more ago, following a visit to this country of a representative of the Italian railroads, which are under government ownership, an initial order for 50,000 tons was placed with the Keystone company. It is understood that the coal gave good satisfaction, and further business in that direction is expected to follow. At present Welsh coal is used largely on the Italian railroads, but the increasing price of that product has impelled the authorities to look around for a new source of supply and more American coal will probably be used in the future. About 10,000 tons a month are sent to Cuba, with occasional cargoes to Brazil and the Argentine Republic

As for the producing end of the company's operations, it has 31 mines and several coking plants which produce annually upwards of seven to eight million tons of coal and coke. Associated companies are also large producers. Over 6,000 men are employed at the mines and coke ovens, and as showing the attitude of the management toward the working force it might be mentioned that the company never had any serious labor troubles until last April, when its employes in the Irwin basin went on strike as a result of the agitation started in that district by union organizers. The operations are situated in both the Greensburg and Irwin fields, and the output embraces a wide range of gas, steam and coking coals.

The equipment of the collieries represents the most improved type, and elaborate precautions have been taken to avoid accidents so far as possible. The new Keystone mine which is now being opened will embody many advanced ideas of equipment and operation. Compressed air will be utilized for traction purposes whenever feasible, and pneumatic mining machines will be installed. The explosives used in all of the mines are examined by chemists employed for that purpose, with a view to insuring safety as well as efficiency, and as a further precautionary measure a strict set of rules, supplementing the regular mining laws of the State, has been adopted and is strictly enforced.

The company owns 1,200 railroad cars, and operates its own repair shops, water systems, power plants and other adjuncts to the production and shipment of its tonnage. Operating headquarters are at Greensburg, and the sales department is represented by offices in Philadelphia, New York, Boston, New Haven, Pittsburg, Cleveland, Baltimore and Toronto.

Besides President Huff, the official staff consists of Lloyd B. Huff, treasurer and general manager; Richard Coulter, Jr., secretary, and Robert K. Cassatt, eastern manager.

KEEPING PROMISE

With the Coal Producing Companies in West Virginia.

President Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad is determined to keep his promise to the West Virginia coal shippers to give better facilities. The railroad this week asked for bids on about $7,000,000 worth of new rolling stock, a large part of which will be coal cars

The coal interests in the section have promised to greatly increase their output in the next year, and the arrangements looks mutually satisfactory.

DEATHS.

Jacob Horner.

MT. PLEASANT, July 30—Jacob Horner, aged 86 years, 4 months and 18 days, died at his country home one mile east of town Wednesday evening of infirmities of old age. The funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at 2 30. He is survived by a widow and one child, William Horner of this place Mr and Mrs. Horner were known all over the state, as four years ago two masked men entered their country home and binding both old people tortured them with hot irons in an effort to find out where their savings were hidden. Neither of the old people would tell but at last the robbers found about $1,000 hidden under the floor. With this they made their escape. Although their assailants were never arrested, yet many people had strong suspicions that close friends of the family knew more than they cared to tell about it constipation permanently by proper personal co operation with the beneficial effects of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, when required. The forming of regular habits is most important and while endeavoring to form them the assistance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is most valuable, as it is the only laxative which acts without disturbing the natural functions and without debilitating and it is the one laxative which leaves the internal organs in a naturally healthy condition, thereby really aiding one in that way. To get its beneficial effects, buy the genuine manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is never classed by the well-informed with medicines which make extravagant and unfounded claims to cure habitual constipation without personal co-operation.

One May Overcome

VINCENT ASTOR STRIVES TO UNITE FATHER AND MOTHER.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 30—Colonel John Jacob Astor says he won't and Mrs. Astor says she won't marry again, but Vincent Astor says they must, and some folks think the young man will have his way. Reports have been circulated a number of times that Colonel Astor and his divorced wife would be remarried again. And both have denied the story. Vincent Astor spends the majority of his time with his father, but he is just as proud of his mother as he is of his father. The young man, according to Newport gossip, has declared both in the wrong and that their troubles of the past must be forgotten.

ALVERTON.

ALVERTON, July 30.—The Alverton W. C. T. U. has never enjoyed a very large membership, but what it lacks in numbers it makes up in the persistence and faithfulness of its members. This evening the union will give a public supper, at which time cakes, pies, ice cream and other dainties will be served. The proceeds will go towards bearing the expenses of the local society in its work of promoting the cause of temperance.

Paul Bowser is improving rapidly much to the joy of his many friends.

Dr. George T. McNish, who is making an extended trip to the Yellowstone National Park, and other places of interest in the West, is likely to come home with some thrilling experiences relative to how it feels to be in an earthquake.

In the wake of progress here is always a loss which is not within the power of any one to hinder. In the losing of his $200 horse, Mr. Barron was helpless in preventing it from breaking through the fence and attempting to walk across the iron street car bridge at the cut.

While going about her daily tasks "Grandma" Gordon of Wardentown was violently thrown by a defective boardwalk.

A number of our residents are having the tin roofs painted, aside from the good it does to the buildings, it adds a sense of freshness to the town.

The Alverton Sunday schools are making arrangements for their annual outings. It is likely the Methodist school will go to Shady Grove and the Church of God school to Oakford. It is the custom of the schools to charter cars, which usually are over-crowded with a jubilant lot of youngsters and older ones who have forgotten the flood of years.

The traveling public have been much inconvenienced during the week owing to the building of a concrete bridge over the phlegmatic little creek that sweeps down through Donnelly. When the job is completed the road will be safer and more beautiful.

Miss Pearl Rondman, who has been serving apprentice days at the Mt. Pleasant hospital, has now been received permanently by the officials and has made arrangements accordingly. Her many friends wish her success.

BERLIN.

BERLIN, July 29.—While Lena, the ten year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Miller, was walking along the street yesterday she was attacked by a pet dog owned by Henry Lease and bitten on the leg. She was taken to her home at once and medical aid summoned after an examination it was found the limb was bleeding freely from the bite, but it is thought the dog bit the child while in the act of playing and may not prove serious.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Kimmel gave a dinner today in honor of Mrs. Kimmel's father, Captain Albert Hoffley, it being the Captain's birthday anniversary.

Wm. H Suter, the local tinner, was in Garrett transacting business today between trains yesterday afternoon.

W. A. Miller of Dividing Ridge, who conducts a general store out there, was in town today delivering a load of new apples to people about town. Mr. Miller had no trouble disposing of them, the demand being greater than the supply.

Mrs. Emma Johnson is having the old stable on the rear end of her lot removed which was partly destroyed by fire several weeks ago. Contractor S. P. Knepper is doing the work.

A festival will be held in the church yard tonight, weather permitting, and if the weather proves unfavorable it will be held at the home of Wilbur DeWalt, south end of town.

The Davidson team will play here one day next week. It is not yet decided which day they will be able to play.

The Morgan scrubs went to Adelaide and badly walloped that team Thursday evening.

Captain Bob McGill of Owensdale's Junior peerless team, is exhibiting a badly discolored optic, as the result of a baseball rudely bumping his countenance, hence Bob's linear prospective on the sphere when he is chopping 'em down at practice is hard to calculate, so he has decided to direct his sturdy warriors from the press box.

The regular services will be held at the churches tomorrow. Preaching services just the reverse of last Sunday's services.

The Everson Car Shops and the Adelaids teams come together on the Liveground grounds this afternoon. The game will commence at 4 o'clock. A good game is anticipated.

The Morgan team would like to hear from Monarch and Leisenring in regard to the return games that are to be played on the Morgan grounds. Address, H. L. Klingensmith, Broad Ford.

Sidney Newell is nursing a mashed thumb which will prevent him doing any work for a few weeks.

Mrs. J. E. Baker was a Scottdale shopper Thursday afternoon.

Misses Anna and Lucy Newell are spending a few days this week visiting Pittsburg friends.

Miss Lulu Trew of Charlerol is visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. J. C. Meason.

Mrs. M. E. Richey was a Scottdale shopper Friday.

Miss Anna B Chalfant was a Pennsville caller Friday afternoon.

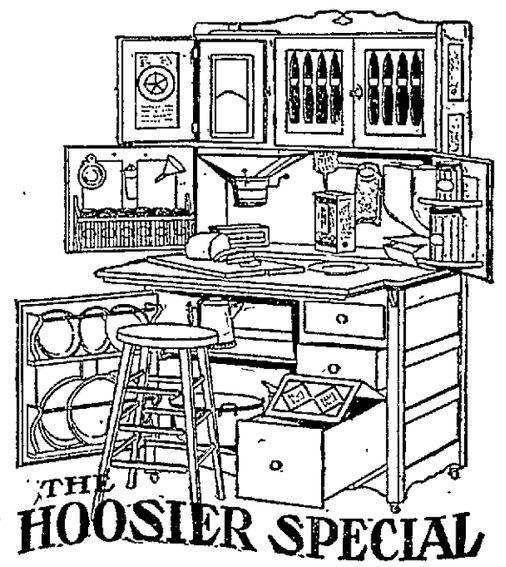

USED PISTOL WITH EFFECT

Enraged Man Kills One Woman, Wounds Another and Shoots Himself.

Toledo, O., July 30.—Enraged because he had been denied admittance to a house where Mrs. Dora S. Wilson, aged thirty-one, lived and upon whom he had been forcing his attentions, George Coyle, thirty-eight years old, shot and killed the landlady, Mrs Edward Boemlinger, thirty-five years old, and wounded Mrs. Wilson.

Coyle then shot himself in the head and will die.

World-Famous Kitchen Cabinets

This hot weather a GOOD kitchen cabinet is the greatest labor-saving necessity in your home.

After convenience, durability is the first essential of a kitchen cabinet.

Yet many kitchen cabinets are so poorly constructed that they scarcely remain in good condition 'till they are in your kitchen. Although the kitchen cabinet may look well on the day you first try it, unless it is made right it will warp out of shape in the heat of your kitchen.

In Every One of the Hoosier Kitchen Cabinets Sold by the Aaron Store

Durability is assured by the careful workmanship and excellent materials that go into the making.

The solid three-ply oak of the panel part of the Highland oak frames are joined by expert workmen with great skill and care.

The metal work is highgrade—made by experienced metal workers in the factory of the Hoosier Company—it is not the uncertain product of itinerant tinsmiths, and the metal used is the very best.

The finish is the result of thirteen years of experiment, and it is guaranteed waterproof.

Every effort has been made by means of guarantees and constant inspection to see that your cabinet is perfect for its purpose.

This means a fixed price on all our stock. It means also that after the first small payment you make upon the cabinet, it practically pays for itself by the weekly payment system.

WILL SLAVISH IMMIGRATION BE STOPPED?

A large percentage of the Connellsville coke region labor is composed of subjects of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. In view of this fact the following deliverance of the Pittsburg consulate will be interesting to the coke operators of this region:

Austria is not anxious for her people to emigrate; the loss of producers at home is greater than any gain through money sent back. Too many cripples go back and too many widows and orphans soon become a charge upon the community, for the government to look kindly on the continued coming of its people to this part of the world. Those who come, naturally, are not the best of the workers and, certainly, are not of the class of industrial workers; they are rather small farmers and their only experience has been in agriculture. I think it not unlikely that the government will stop immigration here altogether, or, at least, limit it until conditions are improved. The emigrants and their own country would be better for such a move, and, I fancy, it might have the result of bringing improved conditions for workmen generally hereabouts.

The subjects of Emperor Francis Joseph do not come to America just for the joy of working in mine employment and living in a new country. They come to better their own conditions, and they know where to come.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the Slavish element which mines our coal and draws our coke is better paid here than it ever dreamed of being paid on its native heath. It is a common occurrence for the Slavish emigrant to work in the coke region a couple of years, and then go home with enough money to buy himself a bit of land sufficient to make him and his family independent, a purchase which, it may be added, was quite beyond him under home conditions.

The plaint of the Austro-Hungarian Consulate is probably predicated upon a wrong premise. The real objection perhaps lies in the fact that the loyal subjects of Francis Joseph too frequently become American citizens. It is plain that there can be no diplomatic objection to foreigners coming to this country and after working here for several years returning to their native land with a pocketful of cold American cash to invest at home. We take it that the science of political economy is studied by foreign statesmen as well as our own.

A more reasonable explanation of this new attitude of the Austro-Hungarian government may be found in the day and night schools for the education of adult foreigners. The Central Mining Institute meeting discovered the fact that this school system was well organized all over the country, and the movement has within the past year taken root in the Connellsville region and other neighboring sections. We note that Canonsburg has just closed a very successful ten months term. Such schools are authorized by Pennsylvania law.

The Austro-Hungarian Government perhaps fears that the education of its subjects by the United States is merely the preliminary step to their benevolent assimilation, and that if the tide is not checked or stopped this great republic will soon have sapped much of the vigor of the Old World empire.

The situation, however, is not so serious as that, and we do not believe the Austro-Hungarian Government will act upon the suggestions of its Pittsburg representative, at least not in the immediate future.

The B. & O. is busy trying to find a lower grade over the mountains. It has long been understood that there was such a route. In these days of topographical surveys by the United States Government, it is not difficult to locate a line of railroad. Any railroad man can do it with a lead pencil. When the line between Connellsville and Cumberland was located, the country was almost a wilderness. The surveyors did the best they could, and they were under the direction of one of the foremost engineers of his time, Benjamin H. Latrobe.

Ex-Governor William A. Stone betrays some disgust with present political conditions. What's the matter with William? Didn't he sign the Ripper bill with the gratuitous that he wasn't bribed?

The attempt of the insurgents to carry water on both shoulders has resulted in a spill which has been a splash for them.

The barroom blacklist has been revised from a positively non-partisan viewpoint.

Whether or not houses are scarce in Connellsville at the present writing, it is a fair presumption that they might be scarce in the near future if enterprising investors were less busy than they are. Things are done by work, not by talk.

The Courier's compliments to The News with the information that it has no objections to The News circulation contest, nor any intention to reflect in any manner upon the credibility of its esteemed contemporary. The Courier's views of circulation contests were drawn forth by inquiries from its own constituency, and had no special reference to the existing contest. The Courier assumes that The News management knows its own business best; and if the management feels that a circulation contest is a good thing for The News, we cannot have any objections, and if we could we would not.

AUGUST.

Last year,
Alack and alas!
Beverly, Mass.,
And Bill on the flat
Of his back in the grass
Sounding in the depths
Of the opaline sky
And watching the clouds
Floating dreamily by,
Last year,
Alack and alas!
Beverly, Mass.

This year,
Saganore Hill,
Strenuous still,
And no one complaining
For want of a thrill,
Shindy and sass
Just as certain as fate—
Beverly Mass.,
Can dream early or late,
Snore as it pleases
And snooze as it will—
This year,
Saganore Hill.

Of August it may first be said, its name is from Augustus, whom men have likened unto Ted, perhaps without injustice. He made the world go round about as many times a minute, and the news was always dull without the great Augustus in it.

He had his Ananaias Club for liars and for fakers, and he loved to sail his little tub among the Roman breakers. He counted peace a sort of plague, and never did pursue it, but let it rally at The Hague, and you couldn't bent him to it.

He preached about the same old things that Teddy has been preaching, and most of Rome's awakenings resulted from his touching. He battled hotly for the right, and valiantly imbued it, and the stork could not attempt to fight but what he up and shooed it.

There was, however, one affair to tell which is to tattle, and that was where this Roman bent was coming in from battle. He had, of course, put everything opposing him to slumber, and Rome awaited him to sing some laudatory number,

But here the parallel desists. Augustus said them, No sir! and when he entered with his lists it might have been the grocer for all the greeting that he got from that admiring chorus, the which desire, of course, was not a bit like Theodorus.

But, howsoever, when he died the month that loves to grill us was being written fume and wile season of Sexilius. They wanted to commemorate the hot time he presented the nation with, at any rate, so August was invented.

The dog days will resume again,
And the man who voted water
With the weather down to eight or ten
Below will grow the hotter
With wishing that he had foreseen
The season hot and stewing,
And nothing but a choice between
Pink lemonade and bluing.

It will not strike him, we're afraid, as when the cold was stinging, and up and down the wind-swept street the icicles were clinging. There's nothing like a dry parade, the shouts of Hallelujah, and the children skillfully arrayed for what you want to fool you.

It's very easy to forget there's such a thing as summer, or such a quantity as sweat, what time the busy drummer is rub-a-dubbing up the street a million bumps a minute, and the line sweeps by with rythmic feat and the little shavers in it.

It somehow makes it seem that booze is only fit for motors, and in the scuffle that ensues not very many voters bethink them that a chance remains that milk won't give them grizzle to last when August boils their brains and their ears begin to whistle.

A crafty temperance is that contriving its elections when Boreas is at the bat in these disputed sections. There is time for everything, to labor and to potter, and one to sit way back and sing inaudibly for water.

At any rate, the world will spin
With very small pretension,
And the fall elections will begin
To clamor for attention.
The next few weeks will fire the gun
Repeatedly and ofily,
And a lot of folks begin to run
For office very softly.

The bold insurgents will have polled the principal chautauquas, and will by that time have been told how far discreet his balk was, or if to follow his attack with further demonstration, or quietly to tip-toe back upon the reservation.

The hopeful Democrat will tool this way and that way training, and hope to have us as a rule have none of their explaining. He'll carefully trim up his wicks and get his pump pulsating, and pass the grand stand every six or seven seconds waiting.

There'll be some dust put up, it seems, when this event gets going, and some things starting at the seams that wanted proper sewing. No wonder Roosevelt came back, and nowadays his gun is rusting in the shooting rack, when here is where the fun is.

NEWS OF A DAY FROM SCOTTDALE.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, July 30.—Mrs. Lattimer, wife of Prof. W. J. Lattimer was given a big surprise party yesterday, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. The Woman's Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church and a number of women friends packed baskets and journeyed out to Mrs. Lattimer's beyond the White school house, where a jolly afternoon was spent at the pretty country home. The refreshments were served picnic style, and at the close Mrs. Lattimer was presented with a double set of beautiful silver teaspoons by the Bible Class of which Mrs. J. E. Hutchison is teacher, while Miss Margaret Hutchison gave her a silver gravy ladle. The affair was partly in the nature of a farewell party from the class, as Prof. and Mrs. Lattimer and family move to Virginia soon.

Concert Tomorrow.

The Grand Army Band will give a Sacred concert, the 22nd free one by the way, in Loucks' park Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and a fine program has been arranged.

Visiting Chautauqua.

Mrs. A. W. Strickler and daughter Miss Helen, and Mrs. James P. Strickler left yesterday for Chautauqua to enjoy a couple of weeks of life there.

Ball Game Today.

Interest is high in the ball game scheduled for the Livengood grounds, Everson, at 1 o'clock this afternoon, when the Frick Car Shops meet the Frick Adelaide team. Horne and Malle will be the Shops battery and Balls and Wolfe for Adelaide.

The Union Services.

The Union church services which have been held with such great success in Loucks park for several Sunday evenings will be held tomorrow evening again at 7 o'clock. Rev. H. W. Millen, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church, will be the speaker of the evening. These services will continue until August 28, and the choir of the church whose pastor is represented will have charge of the musical part of the services.

A Marriage Celebration.

There was a reception of an informal sort at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Graft at the White school house, West Pittsburg street, last evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Graft, whose marriage occurred this week. The Auxiliary band of which several of the Graft boys are members were out and gave a delightful serenade.

Changes Meeting Hour.

Rev. H. B. Swope, pastor of the United Evangelical Church, announces that during the Union services the Christian Endeavor Society will meet on Tuesday evenings at 7:15. Rev. J. E. Hubliston of the Indian Creek circuit preaches on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and Rev. Mr. Swope goes to Greensburg to hold communion services. The Sunday school picnic of this church will be held at the Mt. Vernon ore mines on Thursday, August 4, and all expecting to attend should send word to the pastor so that sufficient wagons may be provided to carry the crowd.

Jefferson King to Speak.

Jefferson King will be the speaker at this evening's street meeting at Pittsburg street and Broadway at 7 o'clock. This is one of a series of meetings held by the Y. M. C. A.

Building New Houses.

Judson T. Strickler, Assistant Cashier of the First National Bank, is building a new residence at High street and Arthur avenue. Prof. C. B. Francis, teacher of Science in the High School, is also erecting a handsome residence on Loucks avenue.

"Fighting Parson" Beats Disturber.

Akron, O., July 30.—Staff Captain Will Trevitt is Akron's "fighting parson." At the Salvation Army picnic he was attacked by Charles Wescott, who struck him under the right ear. Trevitt first tried to reason with him, but finally had to fight. He struck Wescott on the jaw and felled him. Wescott, it is alleged, raised a disturbance.

Pitchfork Pierces Abdomen.

Springfield, O., July 30.—Elmer Dunkle, aged thirty, a farm hand while driving a load of hay in the barn near Thurston was knocked from the top of the hay and the handle of his pitchfork pierced his abdomen. He died two hours later.

Gathering Seeds for Government To Perpetuate Forests in United States.

Special to The Courier.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 29.—The United States Department of Agriculture is using this year on the National Forests over ten tons of tree seed. Most of this seed has already been planted or sown. The rest will be utilized later in the season, as favorable conditions are presented.

It takes a great many tree seeds to make ten tons. Jack pine, the most important tree for planting in the Nebraska sand hills by the Forest Service, will average something like 125,000 to the pound. Of Western yellow pine, the tree most extensively planted throughout the national forests as a whole, 10,000 seeds will make a pound. Altogether the ten tons of seed to be used this year represent perhaps 300 million single seeds.

If every seed could be depended on to produce a young tree suitable for planting, the result would be a supply of nursery stock sufficient to plant 300,000 acres of land, but no such result can be looked for because many seeds do not germinate. Most of the seed will be sown, either broadcast or in seed spots, or planted with a corn-planter, directly in the place where the trees are to stand.

Even when nursery stock is raised a liberal allowance must be made for loss. In the first place, a considerable per centage of the seeds will be found to be infertile. Of those which germinate, many will die before they leave the nursery beds, and many more will be lost in transplanting. If from a pound of Western yellow pine seed that contains 10,000 individual seeds, 1,000 three-year-old transplants are available for field planting, the Department of Agriculture has obtained satisfactory results.

There are now 21 National Forest nurseries with an annual productive capacity of over eight million seedlings. But there are many millions of old burns on the National Forests which are waiting to be restocked, and some quicker and cheaper method than the actual planting of nursery grown trees is urgently needed. Therefore the foresters are making experiments on a large scale with different methods of direct sowing and planting, and most of the seed gathered last year was obtained for this use.

Broadcasting has already been found to give good results in some regions. It was first tried in the Black Hills of South Dakota, with an encouraging outcome. To broadcast an acre of land with yellow pine seed about eight pounds of seed is used. One of the most formidable drawbacks to this method is the extent to which the seed may be consumed by birds and rodents. If the season happens to be one in which food for these animals is scarce, the loss is very heavy. The problem of control of animal pests, such as field mice, ground squirrels, and gophers, which eat the tree seeds, and also the further problem of preventing the depredations of rabbits, which are altogether too fond of the little trees themselves, whether nursery transplants or field-grown seedlings, is receiving the attention of the Biological Survey experts of the Department of Agriculture.

In some localities the Department has had to purchase seed, but most of that used is gathered by Forest Service men themselves. The cost of gathering has varied for the different regions from 25c to $1 a pound. As a rule the seed is collected in the fall months, when most conifers ripen their seed. Parties of three or four men ordinarily work together. Where lumbering is in progress the collectors follow the sawyers and take the cones directly from the felled trees. In standing timber, the task is much more arduous. The men must often climb tall pines and pull the cones from the branches as best they can. Where these are on the extremities and beyond the reach of the hand, pruning shears are used. The cones are dropped to the ground and then gathered into buckets and transferred to sacks. In which they are carried to a central point for further treatment.

The extraction of the seeds is tedious rather than difficult. In some cases the cones are spread out upon sheets in the sun, when, after a time, they open and the seed drop out; in other cases it is necessary to resort to artificial heat. This is applied by placing the cones upon trays with screen bottoms and raising the temperature of the room to the proper degree. The cones open, the winged seeds fall out, and the seed is separated finally from wings and dirt by a fanning mill. A good many seeds have been removed from the cone by hand, but this is a sore trial to the fingers of the pickers and an exceedingly slow process.

COLONEL McCAIN

May Lecture in Connellsville the Coming Season.

Connellsville people may have the pleasure of hearing Colonel George Nox McCain lecture this coming season. His lectures on foreign countries which are illustrated by stereoptican views, have been received with enthusiasm in Pittsburg. E. E. Kehow of Pittsburg, was here yesterday with a view to arranging for Colonel McCain's appearance.

Colonel McCain is well known in the Connellsville region, having at one time been the editor of one of Mount Pleasant's papers, and for many years on the editorial staff of the Pittsburg Dispatch.

MARSHALL P. WILDER, HUMORIST, SAID TO BE ON HIS DEATHBED.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 30.—Marshall P. Wilder, the little humorist, is said to be dying at his home here from an attack of acute indigestion, and his wife is seriously ill as a result of constant attendance at his bedside. Wilder is widely known as a public entertainer and is the author of several books. He was a court stenographer for a number of years, but his fame as a "funny man" spread to such an extent that for the past decade he has been engaged in vaudeville and on the lecture platform most of the time.

RAISE COAL ASSESSMENTS.

Mineral Will Be Taxed More in Monongalia.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., July 30.—As their last act before taking up the assessment of Morgantown real estate the members of the board of equalization and review revised the valuation on Monongalia coal, raising slightly the assessments on the largest part of the coal in the districts on the West Side. Battelle feels the greatest change, the general average being increased from $55 to $65 an acre. Battelle was least affected by the first revision last year, and the change this year puts all the coal land on a more equal scale.

In Clay there is an increase of something like $1 on a large part of the coal, which was assessed last year at from $100 to $155. In Cass and Grant the valuation was raised on the average, about $5, the former valuation ranging from about $125 to something like $160. There is no change along the river front, the increase beginning a short distance back from the river. On the east side of the river a few parcels of coal lying along the river were lowered to correspond more nearly with the valuations set for coal on the opposite side of the Monongahela.

The result of the revision will be a general increase in the valuation of Monongalia's real estate by district.

The increase, however, is not more than the majority of the coal men anticipated and will meet with no general opposition. In a number of cases changes were made in order to make the valuation more uniform, the board estimating the value of the property by its distance from the river.

Having completed their revision of both personalty and realty books for all the districts except that part in Morgan which includes the town, the equalizers are now going over the assessment of Morgantown property. Few changes will be made, the board raising and lowering the valuation on a few houses and lots. This work will be completed shortly and the board will adjourn until next year when another revision will be made.

CHARLTON DECLARED INSANE

Alienists Report on Condition of Young Wife Slayer.

New York, July 30.—The alienists employed by Judge Paul Charlton to investigate the mental condition of his son, Porter Charlton, who confessed to the murder of his wife at Lake Como, Italy, reported to counsel for the defense that they had found Charlton insane.

The Charlton case was to have come up for hearing before Judge Blair in Jersey City on Aug. 11. Edwin F. Smith of counsel for Charlton asked Judge Blair to put the hearing over until Sept. 20, when the physicians would be in court to give their testimony. Judge Blair granted the request.

CRANE TO TOUR WEST FOR TAFT.

President to Get Line on Political Conditions.

PREPARING FOR FALL CAMPAIGN

Junior Senator From Massachusetts, Generally Regarded as Shrewd Politician and Peacemaker, Will Travel Through Western States.

Beverly, Mass., July 30.—President Taft has made his first big move in the interest of Republican success at the polls next November. He had a long talk at the Evans cottage on Burgess Point with Senator Winthrop Murray Crane of Massachusetts.

The president asked Senator Crane to make a trip of political inspection through the far west. The senator, it was understood, accepted. Neither of the officials connected with the executive offices here nor Senator Crane wanted to talk about the trip.

Mr. Crane slipped into Beverly noiselessly and got out again just as quietly. The executive office maintained a silence that was almost equal to that of the junior senator from the Old Bay state when inquiries were made about that visit. There was nothing to be said about it officials averred.

But it is certain that if Senator Crane wants to go west his trip has nothing at all to do with Secretary of the Interior Richard A. Ballinger. Some of the political sharpers here had figured when they heard that Crane was here and that he was going west that he would carry with him a blank resignation which Ballinger would fill out and mail to President Taft. This much was denied absolutely. The president has not the slightest shadow of an idea of asking Ballinger to quit and does not want him to.

Crane Will Soon Leave.

The trip of west of Senator Crane probably will begin within a few weeks. While of course no outline of it is obtainable, it is believed that he will look into the political situation in most of the states from the Mississippi river to the Pacific coast. It is known that Seattle is included in his itinerary.

Crane has been one of the closest advisers both in a political and in an administrative sense that President Taft has had. He was high up in the councils of the Republican national campaign committee during the campaign which resulted in Taft's election and is generally conceded to be a shrewd politician. His familiarity with conditions it was said will make his investigation and his reports to the president invaluable in the fall campaign.

The president does not intend to take an active speaking part in the battle for a Republican house and for Republican state legislatures but he is intensely interested just the same.

Senator Crane's well known ability as a smoother out of difficulties the president's friends think will do much to avert serious factional troubles in some of the far western states. In Minnesota, Wisconsin, Montana and Washington there has been some strife. If Crane can fix things up it will be greatly to his credit and to that of the president. His report to the president is expected in ample time for use next fall.

PINCHOT FOR N. Y. GOVERNOR

His Name Suggested to Roosevelt as Good Man For Job.

New York, July 30.—A college professor dropped a neat little gubernatorial boom in the Outlook office. It fell into the lap of Colonel Roosevelt and it is still there so far as anybody knows. Dr. Samuel McCune Lindsay, a socialist and professor at Columbia university, told Colonel Roosevelt that the best man he knows of for the next governor of New York is Gifford Pinchot.

Dozens of names have been suggested for the governorship but when a few heard of Gifford Pinchot being suggested there was real emotion. It is not likely that Roosevelt likes the boom. If it is that very seriously. Roosevelt was asked point blank just what he thought of this Pinchot boom. He said that he really didn't have a word to say except that he was of course glad to hear about it and that he likes to hear of all sorts of names worthy of consideration.

MOODY DECIDES TO RETIRE

Associate Supreme Court Justice Concludes He Cannot Take Up Duties.

Magnolia, Mass., July 30.—Associate Justice William H. Moody of the supreme court will retire. He will take advantage of the act passed by congress at the last session, for he has come to the conclusion that he cannot again take up his duties.

His illness may yield temporarily to treatment but his friends say here he has informed President Taft of that fact.

Ptomaine Rages in Joplin, Mo.

Joplin, Mo., July 30.—This town is greatly alarmed over an apparent epidemic of ptomaine poisoning. There have been more than 100 cases in the last two weeks with more than forty cases now under treatment, of which twelve are dangerous.

Earl Grey, Governor General of Canada, Going With Mounted Police to Hudson Bay.

For the purpose of investigating the character of the unsettled Canadian wilds in the vicinity of Hudson bay Earl Grey, the governor general of the Dominion, has left Ottawa for Winnipeg, from which point he will leave for the northland under the guidance of members of the royal mounted police. Following a long trip overland the detachment will embark in canoes for a 600 mile trip down the Hayes and other rivers flowing into the bay made famous by the trappers of early days. One of the pictures shows a private of the royal mounted police and his horse.

AFTER LONG SERVICE

George Westinghouse Is Deposed as Head of His Own Company.

New York, July 30.—George Westinghouse, the inventor and head of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company for nearly twenty five years, was removed from the presidency of that concern at a meeting of the directors.

Edwin F. Atkins of Boston was elected to succeed him but it is understood that Atkins will hold office only temporarily until such time as the directors may be able to agree upon a man who will fill the place permanently.

The action of the board was in no way unexpected. It has been known for some time that there has been considerable friction between Westinghouse and Robert Mather, who was put in as chairman of the board after the reorganization with powers that overshadowed those of the president. For the past month rumors of the more or less forced withdrawal of Westinghouse have been particularly active.

Aside from the president the same officers were re-elected. They were Robert Mather, chairman; E. M. Herr, L. A. Osborn and Charles A. Terry, vice presidents; G. W. Hebard and H. D. Shute acting vice presidents; W. A. Ewselsyn secretary; T. W. Simon treasurer and assistant secretary; H. F. Baetz and E. St. John assistant treasurers; James C. Bennett auditor and comptroller; F. E. Craig and W. B. Coville assistant auditors.

Westinghouse will remain a member of the board of the company. He belongs to that class of directors whose term expires in 1912.

WILL SAVE 50 MILLIONS

Revolutionizing of Cotton Industry Planned by Capitalists.

Gloucester, Mass., July 30.—At John Hays Hammond's home in this city there was a conference having for its purpose the revolutionizing of the cotton industry in the United States, in which Hammond, Daniel J. Sully the New York cotton operator and Scott Dalgleish of Cairo, Egypt, the representative of the Hirsch syndicate of London figured.

Briefly the proposition is one to establish warehouses in all parts of the cotton producing districts and manufacturing centers of the country for the storing of the cotton crop so that instead of selling it from hand to mouth it will be marketed through the entire country when desirable. It is believed economy will be effected in the marketing of cotton, which will result in a saving of not less than $50,000,000 a year.

DUN'S REVIEW OF TRADE

Notable Improvement in Business Under Way.

New York, July 30.—Dun's Review of Trade says today:

"There is no lack of evidence that the business situation is much better than the recent depression in Wall street would indicate. A notable improvement in business confidence took place in the latter part of the week due to recovery in security prices, to advices that much needed rains were falling in crop sections and to the excellent quarterly reports of the leading steel producer.

"That conditions in the iron and steel trade during recent months have been more satisfactory than generally believed is evidenced by the report of the United States Steel corporation for the second quarter."

Girl's Rash Act.

Cambridge, O., July 30.—Miss Lillian Miller, aged eighteen of North Salem, committed suicide by drinking acid after a quarrel with her lover.

WOMEN GIVEN COAT OF PAINT.

Incur Enmity of the Youths of Vandergrift, Pa.

QUICKLY LEAVE NEIGHBORHOOD

Captors Smear and Daub the Women With Most Sticky Paint—When Released They Are Told to Vamoose and They Are Quick to Go.

Vandergrift, Pa., July 30.—Two young women who have made themselves personae non gratae to the young men of Vandergrift have died after a dose of tar paint liberally applied to their naked bodies and half the young men of this town are quaking lest they be named in charges growing out of the scrapoff furnished the two girls a few nights ago.

The most generally accepted tale is that two young women were tarred and feathered and ridden on a rail, but the most authentic account is that the women, after being stripped and tied to trees in the woods near town were smeared with asphaltum paint, a sticky tar like substance used to cover iron.

A few nights ago the two young women were intercepted as they left a house on a lonely road between Vandergrift and Apollo. They were induced to accompany two young men down the road where they were surrounded by a large crowd of boys and men all masked. The women were escorted into the woods a short distance from the road and tied to trees. Their pleadings and screams for mercy had no effect on their captors.

The women were placed with their backs to young saplings their hands drawn backward and their wrists tied. While the women cried and pleaded the masked captors tore the clothing from the women.

A can of paint of the most sticky variety, which had been brought by the captors, was brought into play and the women were daubed and smeared. Grotesque figures were painted on them and finally the conspirators blotted out the figures by making an artistic job of painting and covering the women all over with paint. The sticky mass that remained was poured into their hair.

The painting required almost a half hour and when the job was completed the girls were released, given their clothes and told to get out of the vicinity and not return to Vandergrift. They lost no time in going.

The Vandergrift police learned of the hold up of the young women shortly after it occurred but as yet have been unable to learn the identity of the men who figured in the escapade.

The women have not been seen in Vandergrift since the paint was applied. It is said that criminal charges have been made against the young men who participated in the affair but none has been filed before Vandergrift justices.

TROOPS ASSIST

In Big Hunt For Murderer at Quincy, Illinois.

Quincy, Mass., July 30.—All Quincy is up in arms hunting the woods in quest of Louis Restilli, a quarry owner who shot his mother, Mrs. Rose Restilli, and Henry Hardwick a prominent quarry owner, and also shot and seriously wounded his brother Jasper, proprietor of the Quincy Avenue Granite company, Benjamin Bishop and B. T. Hardwick.

The entire police and fire companies, Company K of the Fifth Massachusetts militia and more than 1,000 infuriated citizens, each one armed to the teeth are beating through the woods on the outskirts of the city in search of the man.

It is believed that he became suddenly insane and then fired the shots that brought death and serious injury to his mother and some of the city's leading business men.

Mayor Shea ordered a riot call sounded which brought out the fire department and the boys of the national guard. Every member of the company is a crack shot and the word was passed to all to shoot to kill.

BANDITS FOILED

Pittsburger Opens Fire on Colorado Stage Holdup Men.

Ouray, Col., July 30.—A stage holdup that had all the thrills of the most daring stickups of the early days of the wild west, but which failed of its object because of the courage of a sick tenderfoot from the far east was enacted in the hill near Ouray.

The masked men heavily armed assailed a party of eight men and ten women easterners, returning from a picnic and after bringing the stage to a standstill were prepared to rifle their intended victims pockets when Samuel McCurdy a retired financier of Pittsburg, who is here in connection with his mining properties opened fire on the robbers with an automatic revolver.

The hold up men at first made an attempt to return the fire but either overawed by the unexpected response from the tenderfoot, or losing their nerve they gave up the job and fled to the hills.

CASEY DOESN'T WANT OFFICE

May Not Accept Nomination by Pennsylvania's Third Party.

Wilkes Barre, Pa., July 30.—John K. Casey of this city the father of the Casey liability bill who was nominated by the third party as its candidate for secretary of internal affairs stated that he had not yet determined whether or not he would accept the nomination.

Casey is now a contractor but he formerly was business agent of the building trade workers' union and was one of the union leaders here. He served a term in the state legislature.

Is Fatally Burned by Oil Explosion.

Altoona, Pa., July 30.—Attempting to start a fire on a cabin car with jack on James M. Spade, aged fifty seven years of Bellwood was fatally burned when an explosion threw the burning fluid over him. Spade was a member of the wreck crew on the Bellwood division and was en route to Figat to clean up a small wreck.

Child Dies In Dentist's Chair.

Lancaster, Pa., July 30.—Mary the eight year old daughter of Benjamin Hess a farmer living near Ephrata, was taken to Dr. I. S. Mentzer's to have a tooth drawn. While an anesthetic was being prepared the child became so frightened that an attack of heart failure followed and she died in the chair.

SAILING INTO LAW'S CLUTCHES.

Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve Ignorant of the Trap.

PAIR POSITIVELY IDENTIFIED

Captain of Montrose "Got Wise" to Rev. and Mister Robinson Early on Trip—Squeezing of Hands and Safety Pins Created Suspicion.

Montreal, July 30.—Captain Kendall of the steamship Montrose has sent a message via Glace Bay wireless station absolutely identifying Dr. Crippen and his consort as the pair wanted by Scotland Yard for the murder of Belle Elmore the doctor's actress wife.

The details seem to absolutely clinch the fact that the suspected pair are Crippen and Miss Leneve.

He discovered the pair two hours after leaving Antwerp but didn't wire his owners for the simple reason that he had not sufficient evidence. He conversed with both and found his suspicions verified.

They took passage at Brussels as Mr. John Robinson and Master Robinson and came aboard at Antwerp in brown suits and soft gray hats and white canvas shoes with only a small bag as luggage.

On deck the girl squeezed Crippen's hand. It was the captain's first clue as it was unnatural for two males to act in this way.

The captain examined their hats when at lunch and found Crippen's to be stamped Jackson on the band. The woman's hat had no name but was packed around the brim. Her suit fit badly and was tucked up behind with a large safety pin.

Captain Makes Himself Agreeable.

Captain Kendall says he did not arrest the pair because he was absolutely certain that they did not suspect that he was at all suspicious of their identity. He knew that they would remain quietly aboard if merely watched closely and unmolested. He therefore instead of making any aggressive move, made as much of a society beau of himself as he was able conversed with them freely and did all in his power to draw them out.

In fact at the present moment the Crippens or Robinsons consider the captain one of their best friends and are willing to accept his advice on almost any subject.

The captain mentioned several circumstances which has led him to make up his mind conclusively who the Robinsons really are. He noticed early in the voyage that Robinson senior always carried a revolver in his hip pocket. He had considered the advisability of taking this away from him by stealth but finally came to the conclusion that he might raise the alarm and frighten Crippen into doing something desperate and possibly cause a panic among the passengers none of whom have the faintest idea who their traveling companions are.

The captain and his chief officers and the wireless operator are the only ones aboard who know the true state of affairs.

Kendall only took two hours out of Antwerp to size the pair up. The next morning he confided his suspicions to the chief officer. He soon came to the conclusion that the captain was right and both took every opportunity to ingratiate themselves with the pair.

Crippen talks knowingly of Canada and the United States and says he purposes taking his boy meaning Miss Leneve to California for his health. He would prefer to go by boat he says as far as Detroit. Crippen is growing a beard and strokes it continually with the greatest pleasure. He looks more and more like an old bayseed as time goes on.

The Girl and the Bill

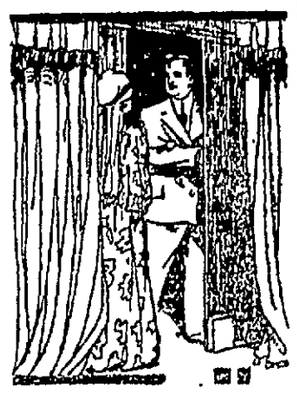

By Bannister Merwin

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

The minutes dragged by. He thought of the precious documents, safe in the inside pocket of his coat. What they were, he did not try to determine, but it was plain that they must be of international importance. The talk of ships and Alcatrante's references to commissions had puzzled him. But suddenly came to his mind the newspaper rumors that Japan was secretly adding vessels to her navy through the agency of a South American republic which was having cruisers and battleships built in Europe, to turn them over at their completion, to the Japanese. There was, as yet, no international proof of this policy, for none of the ships had been completed, but the South American country was certainly adopting a policy of naval construction quite out of proportion to her position among the powers.

How came the girl to be involved in this mix-up of nations? Through her father, of course—but who was he? A concessionaire? Her courage and determination, employed against shrewd men, was as notable as the beauty of her face and mind, for she was like a queen in her assured comprehension.

"Do You—Do You Mind My Knowing Your Name?"

How it quickened his heart to think of her! The poor, faded medium, with the smolder of old flames in her eyes, with the records of hard experience written on her face, was a child in stature beside the girl—a child with yearnings that could never be satisfied.

Well, the girl had doubted him. He could not wonder at that, for the facts were all against him, and she had known him only a few hours. Yet he had hoped—he had believed—that she would know the truth and the devotion in him without further evidence. Perhaps he had expected too much from her noble insight. After all—and that was part of the loveliness of her—she was a very human girl.

The panel swung open, and Madam Alla stood looking down at him. She spoke in an undertone.

"The Japs are still watching. Arima is sitting on the fire escape by his window, and I can hear the other fellow moving around in the hall outside my door. I think they're on to your being here."

Orme thought for a minute. "I've got to get away soon," he said. "I don't mind telling you that there are papers that must be delivered before twelve o'clock tonight."

"Can I take them for you?"

"I don't know where to tell you to take them."

She sighed. "I guess you don't trust me."

"Trust you? Of course, I do. But the truth is, Madam Alla, that it is going to need hard work on my part to find the person to whom the papers belong. I don't even know his name." Secretly he condemned himself now, because he had not overcome his scruples and looked at the address on the envelope while he had the chance.

Again she sighed. "Well," she said, "of course, it's beyond me. Do you—do you mind my knowing your name?"

"Pardon me," he said. "I didn't realize that you didn't know it already. My name is Robert Orme."

She looked at him with a smile. "Well, Mr. Orme, I'll get you out of this. I think I know a way. But you'll have to do just what I tell you."

"I depend on you," he said.

She laid her hand on his shoulder with a friendly pressure. "You'll have to wait here a while longer—and you'll have to keep mighty quiet. I've got a circle at three o'clock—a seance. They come once a week, and I can't well put them off. You see, I work alone. It's a small circle, and I never liked the idea of helpers—they're likely to give you away sooner or later. I stretch a curtain across this corner for a cabinet, and they tie me to a chair—and then things happen." She smiled faintly. "I know you won't hurt my game."

"All your secrets are safe with me." He glanced at the dark interior of the closet.

"I didn't know any other place to put you," she said simply. "They'd have got you, if you had went to the hall—Sh-h!" The panel closed and she was away. A moment later he heard her talking with Arima, who apparently had again climbed up to her window.

"Thief must be here," said Arima. "He not been hall. My friend know. We see him come in here."

"I told you he wasn't here. If you don't believe me, why don't you call the cops?"

"We not want cops. I come in and watch."

"But I'm going to hold a circle here in a few minutes."

"What?" Arima's voice had a puzzled note.

"A seance. The spirit come. You know. All sit around, with the light turned down, and spirits come."

"Oh!" The Japanese either understood or pretended to. "I come, then."

After a period of hesitation the woman said: "Why, yes, I guess you can—if you keep still. Your friend can come, too. You're a neighbor, and I won't charge you anything."

"All right. I call my friend." Footsteps crossed the room and the door to the hall was opened. Presently it closed again, and Orme heard fragments of a conversation in Japanese.

From other sounds Orme gathered that the woman was arranging chairs. "Sit here, you two," he heard her say. "You'll have to keep quiet when the rest come. Do just what they do? Be sure, now."

The bell now began to ring at frequent intervals, each time announcing the arrival of newcomers. Madam Alla's clients were quickly assembling; Orme could hear them whispering among themselves.

A clinking noise he did not at first understand. Then he realized that it was the sound of silver dropping into a hat. Some one was taking up the collection. He knew, too, when they hung the curtain across his corner of the room, shutting off the space in which the medium was to sit, and when they lighted the gas and drew down the shades at the window. Then he heard them lead her into the cabinet and tie her to the chair.

The silence that followed these preparations grew oppressive. The clients were waiting for the right "current," and Madam Alla, Orme had no doubt was using the interval to free herself from her bonds.

In a little while some one started the hymn, "Over the River They Beckon to Me," and the others took it up—women's voices, chiefly, struggling through the melody in their trebles with the mumbled undertones of one or two men.

A draught of cooler air struck Orme's cheek; a hand found his shoulder, a voice whispered. Under cover of the singing Madam Alla had opened the panel. Her lips were close to his ear. In the creepy tension of the waiting Orme had almost forgotten that Madam Alla's ghosts were a chant, and the touch of her hand made him start, but her first words brought him to himself.

"Hush!" she whispered. "You'll get your chance in a minute. Put on a pair of black felt slippers. Here"—she groped along the floor, and gave him the slippers. They were large, and went easily over his shoes.

"Now the black robe, just behind you."

He took it from its peg, and slipped into it.

"Cover your head and face with the hood."

He did as directed, finding the eyeholes with his fingers.

"Hide your hands in the sleeves. Now, listen. I'm going to keep them busy looking at the curtains. When you hear a gong ring three times, come through the panel, and go between the curtain and the wall-hanging, on the side toward the window. The gas is down to a pin-point. Those folks think they can see a lot more than they do. But they won't see you, unless you show some white. Anyhow they'll be watching the cabinet. Keep outside the circle of chairs, and work your way to the door of the next room. There are hangings there; go through them. You'll find light enough in the next room to get to the door in the hall. First stuff the robe under the sofa. You'll find your hat under there. You left it here when you came, and I tucked it away. You'd better wear the slippers down to the street. Never mind about returning them—unless you care to come. Now, be careful."

"The Japanese—where are they?"

"At the other side of the circle. Don't worry about them. They're only kids when it comes to my game. Now wait till I get the things I need." She heard faint rustlings as she gathered her paraphernalia. Soon she was back at the panel. The last stanza of the hymn was drawing to a close. "Be sure you follow directions," she whispered.

"I will." He pressed her hand gratefully.

"And—and you won't forget me?"

With a sudden yearning that seemed to be beyond her control, she leaned her body against him. Her warm breath was on his face; her arm found its way around him and held him convulsively.

"Oh," she whispered, "I can't bear to have you go. Don't forget me—please don't forget me."

"I shall never forget you, and what you have done for me," he answered gravely.

"You will come back and see me—sometime?"

"I will come back. And I should like to bring a friend, who will have even more cause to thank you than I have."

"A friend?" A tinge of apprehension colored the question: "A—a woman?"

"Yes."

The soft curves of her body were quickly withdrawn from him.

"Oh," she whispered, "I don't believe I want to see her."

For a moment she stood motionless. Then she said:

"Are you sorry you kissed me?"

"No," he answered, "I am not."

Her lips brushed his forehead, and he was alone. Groping with one hand, he assured himself that the panel remained open. All in black, he awaited the signal.

And now strange manifestations began in the room without. There were rappings, some faint, some loud—coming apparently from all quarters. Invisible fingers swept gently across the strings of a guitar. Then came the soft clangor of a gong—once, twice, three times.

Orme slipped through the panel, into the cabinet. Keeping close to the wall, he moved to the left and worked out into the room. The rappings were now louder than before—loud and continuous enough to cover any slight sound he might make. A little gasp came from the circle as he went out into the room. At first he thought that he had been seen. To his eyes, fresh from complete darkness, the room seemed moderately light, but the gas was little more than a tiny blue dot.

As he took a step forward he saw why the circle had gasped. Through the curtains of the cabinet came the semblance of a tenuous wraith in long, trailing robes of white. It was almost formless, its outlines seeming to melt into the gloom.

Advancing a little way into the circle, it shrank back as though timorous, then wavered. From the circle came a woman's voice—anxious, eager, straining with heart-break—"Oh, my sister!"

The figure turned toward her, slowly extended its arms, and glided back to the curtains, where it stood as though waiting.

The sobbing woman arose from her chair and hastened toward the wraith.

"Agnes!" she whispered imploringly, "Won't you speak to me, Agnes?"

The ghostly figure shook its head.

"Are you happy, Agnes? Tell me. Oh, don't go until you have told me."

The figure nodded mutely, and with a final slow gesture, waved the woman back to her seat.

Meantime Orme cast his eyes over the circle. Dimly he saw faces, some stolid, some agitated; and there, at the farther end were the two Japanese, intent as children on these wonders. Their sparkling eyes were directed to the cabinet.

The apparition had disappeared between the curtains. But now there was a fresh gasp of wonder, as the figure of a little child stepped out into the room. It did not go far from the cabinet, and it alternately advanced and retreated, turning this way and that, as though looking for some one.

"It wants its mother!" exclaimed one of the women in the circle. "Is your mother here, little one?"

The child stared at the speaker, then withdrew to the curtains.

"They will begin to talk after a while," explained the woman—"when the control gets stronger. I always feel so tender for these little lost spirits that come back to hunt for their loved ones."

Orme moved swiftly around the circle. He passed so close to the Japanese that he could have touched them. The felt slippers made his steps noiseless; the thick rug absorbed the shock of his weight.

He passed through the hangings of the doorway to the next room. There he had no gaslight; the window shades, however, were not drawn so closely but that a little daylight entered. He removed the robe and stuffed it under the old sofa at one side. His hat, as Madam Alla had said, was there, and he put it on and went to the hall door. The circle had begun to sing another hymn. Orme got into the hall, shut the door silently, and hurried down the stairs, the long-drawn strains of the song following him and dying away as he neared the street entrance. In the lower hall he removed the felt slippers and tossed them into a corner.

He was amazed at the loudness of the street noises, and the glare of the sunlight as he stepped to the sidewalk. He stood there blinking for a moment, until his eyes became accustomed to the light. The foot-procession of the city streamed by him.

Suddenly a man turned in toward the doorway, and, with a startled exclamation, stopped short. Orme found himself looking into the gleaming eyes of Alcatrante.

CHAPTER XIII.

An Old Man of the Sea.

"Oh, Mr. Orme, you are the man I most wished to see." The minister's voice carried a note of unrestrained eagerness. He extended his hand.

Orme accepted the salutation, mustering the appearance of a casual meeting; he must keep Alcatrante out of the building.

"I was sorry that I could not be at your apartment this morning," continued Alcatrante, "and I hope you did not wait too long."

"BACK TO THE FARM"

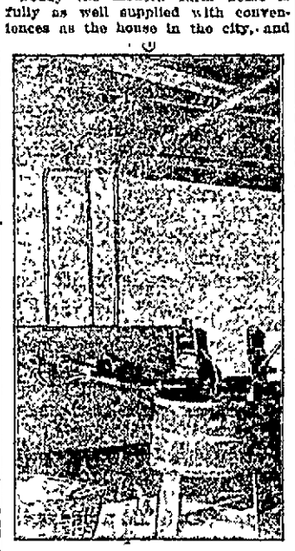

IV.—The Modern Farm Home.

By C. V. GREGORY.

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

ONE of the chief reasons why the girls and women of the farm have occasionally longed in the past for the city is because of the more convenient homes that were found there. Many a farm woman has had her life shortened by carrying water from the well or the spring, bending for hours at a time over steaming washtubs and doing other hard labor from which the women in town long ago were emancipated.

Today the modern farm home is fully as well supplied with conveniences as the house in the city, and it is done at less cost. The reason that more homes are not provided with such conveniences is that the farmers have grown used to doing without them. They look forward to retiring and moving to town, where they can have all the modern conveniences. When they get there they will pay dearly for them in the form of house rent. To have them in the country means a direct cash outlay, and too often the farmer pleads that he cannot afford it. A little figuring would convince him that he need not do without a few of these conveniences that make life so much more pleasant for the whole family.

The first consideration in most parts of the country is the heating system. Farmers are getting out of the habit of using stoves, as they are finding that the added convenience of a furnace or hot water heater, together with the saving of coal or wood, will pay for the installation. With a heating system of this kind all the coal and dust incident to building and keeping up the fire are in the cellar. The whole house can be heated for about what it costs to heat two or three rooms with stoves. There is no need of crawling out of bed into a cold room in the morning. A pull on the chain will open the draft, and in half an hour or so the house is warm. The kitchen also can be heated from the cellar, and an oil stove can be used for cooking. An oil stove takes up less room, saves fuel and is much more comfortable to work over in the summer time.

A furnace has the advantage of cheapness. It also furnishes fresh air to the rooms, if properly put in. For an eight room house a furnace can be put in for about $150. A hot water system for the same house would cost a trifle more than twice as much. The hot water system has the advantages of being cleaner and keeping a more uniform heat. Cheap coal will work well in the boiler, thus considerably reducing the expense for fuel.

The next consideration is the water system. A good water supply under pressure is not only a convenience, but also a form of insurance, since each farm must furnish its own fire protection. Some farm buildings are built now of concrete and hollow tile, but even then there is always some danger of fire. An elevated tank is one of the best means of supplying pressure. Some of the modern types of silos are being built with a tank on top. A method that is as convenient, though a little more expensive, is a pneumatic tank in the cellar. The water is pumped into this and the air inside compressed. The air pressure will lift the water to all parts of the house.

For power to pump the water a windmill may be used, or a hydraulic ram if running water is obtainable. The most reliable power is a gasoline engine. Nearly every really up to date modern farm has its gasoline engine, which can easily be made to combine pumping with its other duties. With a little added expense the water system can be made double, so that both hard and soft water can be obtained. For the bathroom and the kitchen sink hot water is needed also, which can be provided by a heater in the range or by a separate oil heater.

With a good water system installed the work of the housewife is reduced 50 per cent. Cold and hot water, either hard or soft, is always at hand for use in the kitchen. The dishes can be piled into the sink and washed in almost half the time it took previously. A wash room with permanent tubs can be provided in the cellar. The washing machine can be run with the gasoline engine or with a water motor. While a room of this kind may not make washing exactly a pleasure, it will reduce the labor more than half. With a little planning a small tank can be arranged in the kitchen, so that all the water that is pumped for the stock will pass through it. This is almost as good as an icebox.

A good bath and toilet room is a great convenience to all the family. A shower bath in one corner of the barn will be greatly appreciated by the boys at the close of a hot day's work.

The wastes from the kitchen sink and from the wash room can be run into a tile and taken away. For the wastes from the toilet room a sewage disposal plant will have to be provided. The most convenient method is the septic tank. This is an underground cement lined brick tank divided into two compartments. As one compartment fills it overflows into the next. Nearly all the solid substance will be destroyed by bacteria, and the water that flows out at the lower end can be disposed of through a tile drain. The entire cost of a water system such as the one described, with the compressed air tank, together with the sewage disposal plant, need not be much more than $250.

The cheapest method of lighting the farmhouse is by acetylene gas. This gas is generated by a machine in the cellar and can be piped to all the rooms and to the barn. If desired it can be used also for cooking. The average cost of installing an acetylene plant is about $200. This includes lights in the barn and in the yard. It costs little to run an acetylene plant after it is once in. The average cost is about a cent for a sixteen candle power light for four hours. Acetylene is the nearest like daylight of any kind of artificial light and is incomparably better than the old fashioned oil lamp. The newer types of acetylene lamp are provided with a battery, so that they can be lighted by merely turning a button.

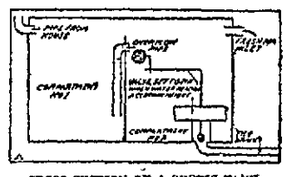

By going to a little more expense electric light can be had on the farm. If a gasoline engine is already at hand the total cost of installing an electric plant, with lights in house and barn, need not be more than $375.

A few electric fans will make the house comfortable in hot weather. One convenience of the city, ice, is still lacking. The way the ice problem is most satisfactorily handled in the country is for half a dozen neighbors to build a co-operative icehouse. The men club together and fill it in the winter, and a plentiful supply of ice is at hand all through the summer. With a small additional expense a cold storage room can be built in connection with the icehouse for keeping meat, poultry, eggs and fruit. In a number of communities co-operative fresh meat societies are successfully run. The members take turns killing a beef or a hog, and fresh meat is supplied all through the year at much less cost than it could be obtained in the city.

The cost of a heating system, a wash room, a vacuum cleaner, a hot water attachment and other devices of that sort is the same in the country as in the city. The cost of the water and sewage system in the country is about $250. The cost of operating a water system in the country is much less than the cost of city water.

An electric lighting system for the farm will cost from $375 up. The life of such a system can be figured safely at twenty years. The storage batteries will not last so long, but the rest of the apparatus will last longer. This would mean an annual depreciation of $18.75. Interest at 6 per cent would amount to $22.50. The cost of operating the plant will depend, of course, on the amount of electricity used. The cost for lighting the average farmhouse and barn for a year and furnishing electricity for sundry other purposes will not average more than $10 for gasoline. This makes the total cost for electricity $41.25 a year. In the city the average cost for electricity for an eight room house is about $50 a year.

The cost of an icehouse and of putting up ice varies so much with conditions that it is hard to give any general figures. These can easily be obtained for any particular locality, however. It is seldom that ice put up in this manner costs as much in the country as in town.

CROSS SECTION OF A SEPTIC TANK.

The farm home can be fitted with hot water heat, hot and cold water, bath and toilet room, electric lights, wash room in the cellar, etc., for $1,000. The interest on $1,000 is $60 a year. Ten per cent for depreciation and repairs is $100 a year. The saving in coal will pay for the cost of running the lighting and water systems. For $160 a year the farm home can be provided with every modern convenience that the city home possesses.

By using a furnace and an acetylene system the annual cost can be lowered to about $85. The city man pays that extra $7 to $14 a month and more in increased rent and thinks nothing of it. The farmer is beginning to realize that it is possible for him to live better, and he is rapidly taking advantage of the opportunity.

GREEN ROOM CHAT.

"The Avenger" Tonight.

The Taylor Stock Company will close their engagement at the Soisson theatre with the final performance of "The Avenger" tonight. The company presented quite a number of clever plays which were well received. They go from here to Scottdale where they play a week's engagement. Tonight is also the closing of the summer stock season at the Soisson theatre. Many important changes will be made in the house before the opening of the regular season. The seating arrangement on the lower floor will be changed and the capacity materially increased. The theater will be thoroughly renovated and redecorated and when once more opened to the public it will present a thoroughly improved appearance. Quite a number of first class attractions have been booked and the outlook is very encouraging for a successful season.

CURTISS TO FLY

Soon In an Exhibition at Brunots Island, Pittsburg.

Glenn H. Curtiss recently won the $10,000 purse offered by the New York World for a flight from Albany, N. Y., to Governors Island. He also finished six weeks' exhibition for the government, demonstrating that the aeroplane can be used in time of war. His exhibition of sailing over the ocean at Atlantic City surpassed all previous flights.

During his stay at Brunot Island he will demonstrate all movements of the aeroplane.

The Pittsburg Aero Club, under whose auspices he is flying, has made superb arrangements for handling the crowds.

A line of steamers will leave Sixth street bridge every 10 minutes.

The Lake Erie railroad will run special trains every 10 minutes. Coraopolis, Island Avenue, West Park and McKees Rocks street cars every five minutes to McKees Rocks, where a pontoon bridge has been erected direct to the Island free to the patrons. Woods Run street car from city every five minutes to Sterling street, where a new line of ferrys will be running.

This exhibition of aeroplane manipulations will be the sight of a lifetime. A similar exhibition was given in the State of Arizona, people coming from 1,500 miles to witness it.

LOCK HAVEN NORMAL.

School Has Had Gratifying Success Training Teachers.

The Lock Haven State Noral School has had gratifying success, both as a training school for teachers and as a preparatory school for such students as desire to go to college. Its home life is particularly attractive to its students and patrons. Probably no other feature has contributed so much to its success. Parents realize that their children are well taken care of, both morally and educationally. Reference is made to this fact because the burning question with most parents is chiefly the one bearing upon the advantages any school offers in the way of safe guarding and developing the characters of its pupils.

The splendid patronage that this ideally located school now has is the best assurance of its worth as an institution of learning. It issues a beautiful catalogue which will be sent free to any one writing for it. Rooms are now being reserved for the fall term beginning September 6th.

West Virginian Drops Dead.

Parkersburg, W. Va., July 30.—The body of James A. Watson, lawyer and capitalist of this city, was found on the front porch of his residence by a passerby. Apparently he had fallen dead while opening the front door of his home and his body had lain there all night. The coroner decided to hold an autopsy. Judge Watson was prominent in legal and political circles over the state and was well to do. He was aged fifty-eight years.

THE LEMONT-DAVIDSON PROTEST

Umpire Shelby's Decision, Which Gave Game to Lemont, Stands—Ruling Made by Directors on Length of Games to Be Played.

The Central Frick League directors were in session more than two hours last night, most of which time was spent discussing two protested games. Trotter protested against the decision of Umpire Butterworth deciding the score to be 4 to 3 in favor of Youngstown after the game had been called before the eighth inning was completed and after Trotter had tied the score Davidson objected to Umpire Shelby calling the game at a certain time instead of at the close of a certain inning. Shelby called the Lemont-Davidson game at 7.15 on account of darkness. With the score 5 to 3 against Davidson in the fifth inning, Davidson scored three runs. Umpire Shelby called the game on account of darkness before Lemont batted in the last half of the session.

President Coll overruled the Lemont-Davidson protest and decided that the game stands according to the umpire's decision. This decision was made after a full statement had been made by each side and a written report had been submitted by Umpire Shelby.

The Trotter-Youngstown game was discussed at length. It was the unanimous opinion of the directors present, including Messrs. Tormay and Pittman of the Trotter and Youngstown teams, that under the rules of baseball the game stood a tie. But Manager Pittman was of the opinion that his team was forced to play beyond the several innings which it was too dark to play. No up count, it was admitted, had been entered into explicitly as to how many innings should be played. President Coll offered to let the decision be based on a ruling made by John Gruber, sporting editor of the Pittsburg Gazette-Times and official scorer of the Pittsburg National League club, but Manager Pittman would not agree to that. President Coll then rendered a decision declaring the game a tie 4 to 4, basing his decision on rules Nos. 22 and 23. Manager Pittman at once announced that Youngstown would withdraw from the league, after stating that his players had previously taken a vote not to remain in the league if the decision was against them. At the same time Mr. Pittman assured President Coll that he had no fault to find with the decision as a strict interpretation of the rules which were plain and left no alternative on the point at issue. In order to keep Youngstown in the league the Trotter management offered to let the score stand 4 to 0 in favor of Youngstown until a later date in the season when an effort would be made to reach an amicable agreement, but Manager Pittman sent word back when this proposition was communicated to him this morning that they had been robbed twice and his decision to quit is final. So quit it is. The Morgan valley team will likely take Youngstown's place in the League. They are a game, sportsmanlike crowd of boys and will be welcomed in the League, likely playing their games on the Everson grounds.

The withdrawal of Youngstown is regretable since Manager Pittman had a gentlemanly and clever team. They were due to go to the front. However, the action of the team in quitting, under the circumstances, is not to their credit as good sportsmen are game ball players. In baseball or any other field of sport there is nothing that throws so much reproach on an athlete or team of athletes as "quitting."

A supplementary rule was adopted regarding the calling of games. Before the game starts the umpire must consult with the two captains and decide the number of innings to be played. He is required to announce this decision to the spectators. The umpire is to be the sole judge of the length of game and the captains can only offer suggestions and inform the official of their preference.

If it is found that darkness is likely to intervene before the specified number of innings can be played, the umpire, not later than the beginning of the fifth inning, shall consult with each superintendent or his authorized representative on the field to decide when the game shall be called.

Only in cases of absolute necessity will an umpire call a game before a full inning has been completed.

New players were added to several teams but all of them are Frick employes. Trotter added Hassam to its list; Davidson expects to play King ing at short; Bitner has Hatfield and Forsythe, and Bute took on Edmunds, Dare and Smitley. The Bitner players are discouraged over the poor showing made and some of them have threatened to desert. The team is showing such marked improvement in its work with the addition of "Speaky" Means behind the bat that some victories can be loked for soon.

Among the Frick Leagues.

Hawkins pitched fine ball for Standard against Buckeye. Hawkins is picked to be one of the phenoms of the circuit.

Serosky's triple for Standard against Buckeye was one of the hardest drives seen for sometime past.

Ollmack made a great catch for Buckeye.

King, at first for Alverton, is a hard hitter. He rapped out three singles against Buckeye the other day and was only up four times.

Ramsey, pitching for Alverton, allowed but five hits and struck out 12 Buckeyes.

Jones, who pitched and played short for Buckeye, distinguished himself by missing six of his 12 fielding chances. The day previous Minderd at first had three errors out of a total of eight chances. Some fielding that.

Serosky, Coperdak and Blackburn for Standard negotiated the first triple play made in this section for many moons. With first and third occupied, a line drive was hit at Serosky. He caught it, tossed it to Coperdak at third and the latter hurled the sphere to Blackburn at first, catching the runner by a big margin.

Buckeye licks hitters. Fifteen of them struck out before Hawkins.

Youngstown, a special from Percy says, has been invited to join a four club league composed of Youngstown, Percy, Bethlehem and Coolspring.

SECOND CRUISE

On Sea of Matrimony for Couples at Uniontown.

UNIONTOWN, July 30.—Undaunted by one shipwreck in the matrimonial voyage, Jesse Weaver, of Uniontown and Samuel J. Lewis of Franklin township, both set sail for a second cruise, Friday, starting the latest expedition within three days after a decree of the Fayette county courts freeing them from former matrimonial alliances. Both were divorced last Tuesday. Both were married Friday afternoon. Lewis' bride was Miss Cora Fletcher of Franklin township. Weaver's bride was Miss Bessie V. Keener of Monongah, W. Va.

Neither couple was acquainted with the other. One had no sooner left the Recorder's office, where they were self-married, than the other couple appeared, secured a license and were promptly married. It is the first time on record where two men secured divorces on the same day and both remarried on the same day, and within three days after the decrees of divorce were issued.

Lewis gave his age as 38, while Weaver is only 24 years old.

SENATOR FRYE ILL, MAY RETIRE.

ROCKLAND, Me., July 30.—The Maine legislature to be elected in September probably will have to elect two United States Senators. Senator Hale has announced that he will retire, but has retracted the announcement, according to his friends, and will be in the contest. In any event the legislature must elect some one to the Hale seat this winter. Senator Frye, whose term does not expire until 1913, is at the Rangeley lakes so ill that it is expected he will announce his retirement in time for the legislature to act. Former Governor Cobb and Judge Frederick A. Powers of the Maine Supreme Court are the contestants for Senator Hale's place. Representative Burleigh has been slated to succeed Senator Frye.
